The Independent Play Boulder Climber with Slide infuses the landscapes of nature into play. A molded plastic boulder uses alternating artificial stones to create openings for little climbers' hands and feet. The rock formation is smooth to the touch and sits flush with the platform to make the transition to the slide seamless. Now that they've ascended the climbing element, kids can joyously go down the straight slide and start all over again. The size allows multiple children to play at once, encouraging socialization. And the journey from start to finish is a beneficial exercise, increasing stamina and strengthening important muscles. The mild challenge of a climbing section alongside the staple fun of a slide makes choosing this installment for a diverse play area a no-brainer. The primary color scheme is a classic on the playground but custom options are available. Contact a AAA State of Play salesperson to learn more about customizing the Boulder Climber for your park, school, or childcare facility.
