Highlights:

- Helps referees better officiate volleyball matches
- Powder-coated white for a clean and durable finish
- Comes with V-brackets and extra legs to suit any setup
- Non-marring wheels and protective end caps make storage easier

The Volleyball Referee Platform Stand offers solid footing for officials during competitive play. The square tubular steel frame is powder-coated white for a long-lasting and attractive finish. This stand can be set up in two different ways; The included V-brackets attach directly to the net posts and a set of sturdy legs allow the unit to be freestanding. All of the legs have protective end caps to reduce the risk of damage to the floors during transport and storage. They can be adjusted to several different heights to suit the preferences of officials. This referee stand includes two non-marring wheels to make the moving process even easier. This high-quality system makes judging volleyball matches a breeze as it meets volleyball referee stand specifications. Consider adding the available Gared stand pads, designed to perfectly fit this system, for an extra touch of safety for players and officials.
