Playground Equipment dot-com's Freestanding Dream Catcher Climber is made with commercial grade materials, which are sure to last and resist weather and rust damage. The Dream Catcher Climber can take on daily wear and climbing from children ages of 5-12. The posts and curved beams are also powder-coated, which discourages rust from accumulating. Climber structures like the Dream Catcher are known to build strength and improve cardiovascular health, as most children increase their heart rates by climbing. The product's nylon wrapped steel cables will make children feel like they are climbing a big spider web, contributing to their imaginative play. Not only is this climber durable, but thanks to its compact and exciting design, it's ideal for any public area wanting to fill some limited spaces. The Freestanding Dream Catcher Climber will quickly become a favorite of the playground amongst children with its appealing, one-of-a-kind design.
