The Freestanding Snake Balance Track utilizes curved bars made from perforated steel to create a unique walking path for small playground-goers. It uses a unique and inviting design to gain interest and facilitate beneficial physical activity for children of all ages and abilities. These steel rails along the balance track path provide support and stability as kids trek along the path, ensuring kids with walking or balance-related issues won't fall off or trip. Rather than following the straight and narrow, the Freestanding Snake Balance Track curves and twists, facilitating a safe yet challenging walking experience for all participants. Waves along the perforated decking present an extra challenge to young children, as they will have to maneuver over the inclines and keep their balance on the way back down. The Freestanding Snake Balance Track will add another sturdy piece of equipment to your playground, while making it a more inclusive place to play for children who may not be able to get around as easily as others.
