The Delta Dome Pod Station Climber offers children several ways to play and climb to the peak. They can scale the various curved ladders, either the arch ladder over the pod climbers, or any of the dome sections. They could also get to the top on the serpent pod climbers, a completely different type of challenge. This half dome includes places to watch from underneath, encouraging imaginative play and socialization. Climbing is one of the most beneficial exercises for developing children and the Dome Climber offers plenty of opportunities to do just that. The capacity of this structure is between 19-23 people, which makes it an ideal social hub for all children between the ages of 5-12. This structure is held up by weather resistant, galvanized steel support arches and posts, making it a sturdy and safe play area that is built to last. Introduce the Delta Dome Pod Climber to your playground and guarantee hours of fun, as well as ways to enhance children's physical and mental development.
