Tale of Titans is a truly massive play structure with several distinct ways for kids to get active. From drum panels to vertical climbers, Tale of Titans has something for just about every child on the playground. Its intuitive, safety-centric design features protective handrails and guardrails at nearly every elevated aspect of the structure, while the vertical climbers and stairway provide ample opportunity for several kids at once to play without running into or getting too close to each other. The structure features a spiral disc climber, a vertical climber, and a horizontal climber, as well as three slides, which collectively provide more than enough fun to go around. Also included in this play system are two drum panels, located near the base of the structure. No matter what kids choose to play on, it's a sure bet that they'll have fun on Tale of Titans.
