Children can come and hang out in Lil Hut, a playset that features a number of activities for your child to partake in. On one side, kids can go down a slide, which includes a decorative hood. On one side, there is a rope climber with handles, while on the other, there is a rock wall climber with handle panels, as well as a teleidoscope on top. There are three fun and interactive panels attached to the playset, including a panel with moveable gears, a bubble flat panel for children to look out of, and a chime panel that will serve to encourage your child's interest in music-making! There is not only a set of steps with a handle, there is an ADA transfer deck with handles. All of these amazing features are located under a large, hexagonal room, which provides 63 square feet of shade, ensuring that your children are protected from the harsh rays of the summer sun.
