Great for improving coordination, these Balance Beams serves to help kids have fun on a playground. This balance beam is designed for playgrounds, and has a variety of potential uses. Children can tiptoe across the beam, perhaps envisioning themselves crossing a narrow tightrope, or they can sit on the beam and hang out with friends. However, in all likelihood, most kids will use these Balance Beams for their intended purpose - walking across the beam while maintaining their balance. These balance beams are a natural way to link different areas of the playground. For instance, it could effectively serve as a bridge between swings and spring riders. The Balance Beams, although simple in nature, boast a great deal of potential usefulness on the playground.
