Sand and Water Table

The Tot Town Sand/Water Table is great for active children who enjoy playing outdoors on the playground. Additionally, this sand play table provides the proper support and environment for developmental growth in children. Many child development professionals extol the virtues of sensory play, and there's no better way to let kids learn through their senses than with a water and sand table. Among its many benefits, a kids' water table can encourage cognitive, linguistic, physical, creative, social, and emotional skill-building. The numerous potential advantages offered by a quality water/sand table for kids makes one or more of these a smart investment for any organization interested in child development, including schools, community centers, or places of worship.

Items placed on a durable water and sand table encourage children to unleash their imaginations and develop the skills necessary to mature and succeed. Old plastic containers, kitchen utensils, hand-held digging tools, and wooden sticks can be great additions to a sand/water table to allow for a variety of options for creative play. This outdoor water table comes with equipment including 24-inch bowls, 1/2-inch drain plugs, and a lid for the sand bowl to keep the contents dry in case of inclement weather. [\[Read More\]](#)
