The Junior Triple Panel Climber has three climbing panels that are supported by sturdy posts. This climber is ideal for larger play areas and heavy use. Each panel has hand and foot holes for easy gripping. The climbing wall has 5 feet tall panels that are a manageable height for even the least experienced children; this unit is designed for kids aged 2-12. This climber is a great way for kids to burn off excess energy and enjoy a great outdoor workout. Children love the three-panel design, and often test their skills by racing one another to the top. The Junior Triple Panel Climber is designed to help develop climbing skills, strength, and hand-eye coordination in younger children. Sii is dedicated child safety by ensuring that every commercial playground climber they produce strictly adheres to playground safety guidelines.
