The Sii Freestanding 90 Degree Loop Rung combines challenging strength building exercise with outdoor fun. This playground equipment is made with steel posts that are 3.5 inches in diameter. The posts offer superior strength and durability. The child climbs a small ladder up to reach the looped steel rung monkey bars, the loops snake around a central pole giving it a distinctive look. The Freestanding 90 Degree Loop Rung is a great way for a kid to stay entertained while also testing and improving their strength and endurance. An upright pole is located in the middle of the monkey bars for additional support along the turn. Any playground would benefit from having this playground equipment because it offers fun and fitness. This play equipment provides a way for a child to test their strength, building confidence along the way.
