The Freestanding Straight Rung is a timeless playground favorite, and a must have for all parks, playgrounds, and recreation areas. The traditional ladder-like monkey bar rungs make a challenging game for children to navigate across. This fun piece of playground equipment is 7 feet in height once it is installed, and can support the weight of up to four children at one time. Kids will build precious social skills as they challenge each other, and test their strength and endurance. While mastering this challenging playground climber, children are building upper body strength and improving athletic dexterity. All Sii brand commercial playground equipment is designed with safety in mind, and Sii strictly follows playground safety rules for commercial playground equipment. The entire structure is created by galvanized metal ensuring the long life of this playground equipment.
