A kids' sandbox is a playground staple, providing endless space for exploration, creativity, relaxation, and fun. Playing in the sand allows children to explore with different tools, practice building structures, and create their own imaginative landscape. It's also a great chance to make an adult-approved mess! But that doesn't mean Mother Nature should be allowed to make a mess, too: That's why sandboxes with covers, like this one, are the perfect option. A cover helps contain sand in the box, preventing lost sand due to the wind and keeping the sand clean and dry when it's not in use.

This large sandbox provides plenty of space for several children to play: Its 10-by-10 dimensions allow enough room for up to eight children to play comfortably. The sandbox holds 5,000 pounds of sand when properly filled, and it comes with a cover as well as a ground barrier, four corner seats, and a bench seat. It's made from durable high-density polyethylene with UV stabilizers, so it will last through years of children's play, and it's covered by a ten-year limited warranty. It's also easy to install, using a simple interlocking design.

A Safe and Comfortable Preschool Sandbox with Seats

This preschool sandbox with seats is designed with children's safety and comfort in mind. There are no sharp or rough edges, and the included seats give kids a place to rest when they want to get out of the sand for a little while.
