This durable playground climber features three plastic pentagon-climbing panels that are rotationally molded developed to withstand high use commercial playgrounds. The Triple Pentagon Plastic Climber is strong enough to hold six kids at the same time. The playground climber is designed to encourage physical fitness and a love for playing outdoors. Kids use the hand and foot holes to easily make their way up and over the large plastic climbing panels. Children utilize many muscles while playing on this climber; climbing muscles such as the grip, forearm, and back muscles are worked out during each session of play. This commercial playground equipment complies with ASTM and CPSC playground safety guidelines. This climber is a great addition to any playground and is designed to have a long life and be resistant to fading and damage.
