When putting loose fill surfacing like Engineered Wood Fiber or Rubber Mulch, a ParKurb Border is always a good idea to keep the safety surfacing where it belongs. A barrier can keep bikes and other unwanted toys out, but its most important role is to keep loose fill surfacing at the right level for injury prevention. Children will fall, but having safety surfacing can greatly lessen the impact and subsequent injury from that fall. The stakes can easily be inserted into grass or dirt. Each ParKurb Playground Border comes complete with a stake. The border is 4-feet and 4-inches long. Additional 4-inches is for the puzzle like ends that fit together, secured by a stake, to ensure a sturdy wall. The durable and popular ParKurb is available in 8-inch and 12-inch heights. The timber is made of a durable plastic material in the color black only. The ParKurb timber is two-sided and 4-inches wide. One side of the border is a wood grain and the other a textured finish. The galvanized stake is easily installed in most surfaces. The timber includes molded areas to hide the stake head from being exposed.
