When it comes to playground equipment, the right hardware makes all the difference in the world. It provides strength, durability, reliability and increases safety levels. Child Works has designed this 2-Hole Flat Ductile Iron Swing Hanger to be used for commercial use so not only can it support the weight of children playing all day long at a busy playground, it can withstand harsh environmental elements as well. This piece of hardware is crafted from ductile iron so it offers an increased level of strength and security for the swing. It also features two holes that are already there for bolting purposes, which means that it is easy to use without any alternations. This piece meets all CPSC guidelines as well.
