For all parents, the safety of their children is incredibly important. It is important to ensure that children are not scarred by memories of accidents on playground equipment - and one problem that many parents have with modern playgrounds is the use of chains when their children are playing with their favorite swing set. You can now access a front chain with snap, which is a plastic-protected front chain with a snap feature, which is used for the half-bucket seats found on swing sets for younger children. This is absolutely essential for young children, ensuring that the swing seats are held tight and can be removed, if necessary. The plastic protection also mean that children cannot trap fingers within the metal chain. This essential piece of kit is the perfect safety accessory for all playgrounds.
